Market Review

The FBM EMAS Shariah Index rose 2.6% month-on-month (MoM) to 11,278 in January, making it the fourth consecutive month of positive gains, despite the US Dollar strengthening against MYR at the beginning of the month. This was attributed to foreign buying gaining momentum, surging 2.7x MoM to RM679 million. With the strong gain, the KLCI outperformed both the MSCI Emerging Market index (-4.7% MoM) and the MSCI All Country Asia ex-Japan Index (-5.5% MoM) in January. The focus on corporate fundamentals and earnings could be key in 2024 as the global economy stabilises and fund flows into emerging markets recover.
