Market Review

The FBM EMAS Shariah Index dropped 8.7% in June, its sharpest monthly decline since the start of the pandemic in March 2020. The decline was due to rising fears of a US recession and concerns over rising costs and sharp fall in CPO prices. The worst performing sector in June was energy sector, followed by plantation. Window dressing activities on the last 6-trading days did not manage to recover the loss through the first part of the month. Domestic market sentiment remains weak as investors remain on the sideline pending further domestic catalyst. On a year-to-date basis, FBMSHA dropped 14.3%.
